“King in the Wilderness” is a 2018 documentary film, looking at the last 18 months in the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., a champion of the Civil Rights Movement. This outstanding film premiered so recently that it is not yet generally available. Directed by Peter Kunhardt with music composed by York native Saul Simon MacWilliams, who was able to obtain permission to show it here. The film is a tribute to Dr. King and to Black History Month. This book and film series is made possible by the Maine Humanities Council, the York Diversity Forum, United Methodist Church of York-Ogunquit, and the York Public Library.
